GENERAL INFORMATION

OVERVIEW

With the steady introduction of more treatment options and biotechnologies, an increasing number and range of ethical challenges in health care are emerging. This conference is designed to help professionals meet these challenges through their work as clinicians, members of ethics committees or ethics consult teams, and administrators.

This one-day conference for collaborative learning, dialogue, and inter-professional exchange seeks to provide up-to-date information in healthcare ethics relevant to clinical practice; provide approaches to ethical reasoning that clarify ethical problems; and facilitate professional discussion of ethical challenges and decision making in healthcare.

INTENDED AUDIENCE

Administrators, Attorneys, Chaplains, Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Physicians, Physician Assistants, Social Workers, Students, Trainees, and Others

PARKING

The nearest accessible parking is directly north of MERF in the Newton Road Parking Ramp (NRP Ramp). Details, maps, and current rates can be found on the Parking and Transportation website.
